

International Cosmos Prize Online Symposium

<International Cosmos Prize>

The International Cosmos Prize was established at the 1990 International Flower and Greenery Expo (EXPO'90) to further inherit and develop the idea of the "Harmonious Coexistence between Nature and Humankind". The Prize is awarded to outstanding activities (research and otherwise) in Japan and overseas that are in line with this idea.

Clear the Path for a Sustainable Future

The Harmonious Coexistence between Nature and Humankind in the COVID-19 era

COVID-19 has drastically changed our societies.

The COVID-19 pandemic might have been caused by imbalances in the relationship between nature and humans, such as climate change and deforestation.

When considering the COVID-19 era and beyond, we must think about how we will be in harmony with nature.

This symposium endeavors to seek ways to consider the COVID-19 era, through messages from distinguished guest speakers who have worked for a long time toward resolving global environmental issues.

Gretchen C. DAILY

2009 International Cosmos Prizewinner / Professor in Environmental Science, Stanford University, the U. S. A.

Johan ROCKSTRÖM

2015 International Cosmos Prizewinner / Director, Potsdam Institute for Climate Impact Research (PIK), Germany

TAKEUCHI Kazuhiko

Member, International Cosmos Prize Committee / President, Institute for Global Environmental Strategies (IGES), Japan

IDA Tetsuji

Journalist, Kyodo News, Japan

*Moderator

Online
symposium

* Zoom webinar

Wednesday, 3 February 2021

15:00-16:00 (JST, GMT+09:00)

The symposium will be composed of short presentations by each speaker on the recommendations for societies during and after the COVID-19 pandemic, followed by tripartite talks amongst the speakers. The symposium will then conclude with messages for youth.

Prior-registration is required

Language:
English only

Free admission

Please register for the symposium from the link below or the QR code on the right. You will receive a confirmation email upon successfully completing the registration.

https://us02web.zoom.us/webinar/register/WN_ILVwwWu-RaukK9t1tjoy6g

Archive viewing
* YouTube

For those who are unable to join the symposium live, a video archive with Japanese subtitles will be uploaded on the Expo'90 Foundation's YouTube channel. This video will be available at your convenience without prior registration.

[Contact]

Institute for Global Environmental Strategies (IGES)

TEL: 046-855-3720

Email: outreach-info@iges.or.jp

• Internet connection is necessary to join the symposium live or view the archive. Viewers are responsible for internet data charges.

• Personal information will be used solely to organise this symposium and not for any other purposes.

Co-organisers:

IGES Institute for Global Environmental Strategies